Preamble

This benefits and compensation plan applies to employees in classifications listed in Appendix "A" Classifications.

New employees will complete a six (6) month probationary period. The Department Director may extend the initial probation for up to six (6) months in writing prior to the end of the initial probationary period. If no extension is proposed before the end of the initial probationary period, the employee will be considered to have passed probation.

The probationary period of an employee who is absent from work, temporarily reassigned to work in another classification, or temporarily assigned to perform modified or light-duty work will be extended by the same amount of time as the absence, reassignment, or modified/light duty assignment.

Employees who have not completed their initial probationary period are permitted to apply for open positions. If the employee is selected to fill the position, the employee is required to complete a new probationary period.

Employees who transfer or promote to a new classification are required to complete a new six (6) month probationary period.

During the probationary period, an employee may be released at any time by the General Manager, with or without cause, and with or without prior notice to the employee. The employee will be notified of release from probation. An employee who has been released during the probationary period has no right to appeal or grieve the decision.

Any employee who has obtained permanent status and who is released during a subsequent probationary period will be reinstated to the position from which the employee was promoted or transferred.
